Today I went to Staples. I saw a young woman there, probably a few years older than me, 20's something most likely. Wearing a mask, so I saw not her nose or mouth. Had brown frizzy hair a bit lower than shoulders. What struck me about her was a seeming lack of cosmetics of any kind. Skin light, not pale. Bit of hair visible on the lower arms, if looked at closely. Did not note eye color. Clothes uniform, nondescript (was working there) red polo-ish shirt and some sort of jeans. Figure feminine, but not overly so - just noticeable in the waist/hips, small to average breasts. Fingers short, but not stubby. Again, no nail polish, perfume, cosmetics, hair dye, or any alterations I could note (though I can't smell my own odour after days of no showers). That is all. 24/4/2021
